The Idea and Reason Behind It

It is high time we join hands to restore nature and earth. The side effects of global warming are becoming more and more serious increasing the temperature on a daily basis. Along with that, pollution and climate change have become serious issues in India. Airbnb has taken the initiative to bring a positive change to this situation by joining the Twitter trend #GenerationRestoration for the World Environment Day 2024. Airbnb will promote environmentally friendly tourism practices to mitigate environmental issues and restore the charm of popular tourist spots.

What's in Store for the Guests? (The unexpected experiences)

1. Ecofriendly Homestays

For this campaign, Airbnb will mainly focus on promoting eco-friendly homestays in India. The tourist can experience staying in beautifully decorated huts in remote areas. This will allow them to come closer to nature and experience life without advanced technology.

As a part of this campaign, Airbanb will also promote accommodations with sustainable practices like solar power energy, rainwater harvesting, and waste management facilities. This could be a whole new experience for the tourists.

4. Eco-Friendly Activities

To make the campaign more engaging, Airbnb will also arrange some eco-friendly activities like tree planting and cleaning waste from rivers or sea beaches. An eco-cooking class will also be arranged, and the chefs will teach the guests the process of cooking organic foods with minimal wastage. Airbnb will also arrange a cycling tour through the forest areas to provide a first-hand experience of exploring nature.

Tourist Spots for the Campaign

For this particular campaign, Airbnb will choose rural areas with eco-friendly tourism options like Kumbalangi Island Village (Kerala), Thenmala (Kerala), Lachen (Sikkim), Coorg (Karnataka), Kaziranga (Assam), and similar others. These places are currently facing different environmental issues like pollution and waste. Through eco-friendly community activities, these issues can be mitigated to some extent.

Celebrity Endorsement (Tastemakers)

Phool (Nitanshi Goel), Deepak (Sparsh Shrivastava), and Jaya (Pratibha Ratna) from “Laapataa Ladies” can be the faces of this campaign. Considering the setting of their Superhit movie they could be the perfect representatives for this campaign. Airbnb will create advertisements using the particular dialect used in “Laapataa Ladies”. This will bring a rural touch which exactly is the theme of this campaign.
